

The Evergreen State College Unsoeld Seminar Series presents

March of the Pigments:

A Colorful Trek through History

Dr. Mary Virginia Orna

February 19, 2025 • 5:30 p.m.

Purce Hall – Lecture Hall 1

Free and open to the public

Book sale and signing

will follow the presentation

Pigments speak of passion – passion in their creation and in their application. They have graced our world with joy, delight, symbolism, protection, identity and meaning. They pervade every aspect of human life from the food we eat, the clothes we wear, and the buildings we build. They color our bodies inside and out.

Dr. Orna invites her audience to examine the march of the pigments through human history, propelled largely by the concomitant development of chemistry, and the effect they have had on our history.

SCAN
TO LEARN MORE >>

evergreen