

Walking by the leaves

Whenever I look to the leaves,
Something's always different,
From blooming bud to nothing there,
It's never quite the same,

Walking a path every day,
My sister by my side,
Currently the leaves are green
But soon they'll be brown

